Allinial Global Ranked #2 in the World

ATLANTA, GEORGIA March 9, 2020 — After posting 36 percent growth for 2019 and exceeding $4 billion in collective revenues, Allinial Global is pleased to announce that it now ranks as the world's second largest accounting association.

Raising the bar has been a key theme for Allinial Global in recent years, and this important milestone reflects the association's remarkable success and ability to balance rapid expansion with a focus on quality and client service. Since rebranding as Allinial Global in November 2015 with revenues under $2 billion, fewer than 100 members, and presence in just 15 countries, Allinial Global has now reached $4.111 billion in collective revenues and grown its membership to 229 independent accounting and consulting firms representing 76 countries around the globe.

In the midst of this exceptional growth, Allinial Global continues to garner international acclaim for its forward-thinking leadership and innovative client-centric focus. Named the 2018 Association of the Year and 2019 Rising Star Association by the International Accounting Bulletin, Allinial Global closed out its 50th anniversary year with an eye toward the future and plenty of exciting initiatives yet to come in 2020.

"Our goal was not just to be 'big.' Our growth is a result of a deliberate strategy, and more importantly, its implementation. Thanks to the dedicated efforts of the Allinial Global team, we are not only succeeding but also changing the industry. It's both a pleasure and an honor to see our vision of a member-driven, client-focused model becoming a reality."
